TO SAFEGUARD LOANS.

Messengers Carry Credentials.

Warned by the recent theft of $380,000 from the National City Bank on a forged check by Harry Leonard, a clerk in a stockbroker's office, the Wall Street banks and the Stock Exchange are planning to safeguard the system of Stock Exchange loans. Following a meeting of large banks recently, a system will probably be put into effect which will require the presentation of credentials and official identification before collateral will be given out on payment of loans.

This meeting was held at the National City Bank. There were present W. H. Porter, president of the Chemical National Bank, who is chairman of the Clearing House committee; chairman of the clearing House committee;
Gates W. McGarragh, president of the Mechanics' National Bank; H. P. Davison, vice-president of the First National Bank; A. H. Wiggin, vice-president of the Chase National Bank; William Woodward, vice-president of the Hanover National Bank; James S. Alexander, assistant cashler of the National Bank of Commerce, and H. M. Kilburn, cashler of the City Bank.

They discussed official check systems, deciding

CAR FAMINE BECOMING SERIOUS.

Two Railroad Superintendents Mandamused -Favoritism Alleged.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Pittsburg, Nov. 28.—The car famine has begun to pinch in Western Pennsylvania. Not more than 60 per cent of the cars ordered by coal operators are now being delivered.

This morning Judge Buffington, in the United States District Court, granted writs of alternative States District Court, granted writs of alternative mandamus on George W. Creighton, superintendent of the Altoona division, and E. J. Cleve, superintendent of the Cambria and Clearfield division. The writs are made returnable on January 3 and are issued at the instance of the Hillsdale Coal and Coke Company, which charges that it has been able to get only a small portion of the cars ordered, that its business has been interfered with, etc. It is alleged that the officials are showing favoritism.

storm last night. The Mayor was to have made a speech, and there was much disappointment when it was announced that he could not be present. In his place Charles V. Fornes made a short address. Mr. Fornes spoke of the excellent work done by the hospital society, and said the new hospital, when opened, will be a great boon to the Borough of Brooklyn.

The storm caused a large falling off in the attendance. It was announced that Abraham Abraham, president of the society, had contributed $6.000 to the "Book of Life," in which are recorded all the names of the contributors to the fair. The receipts on Monday night amounted to more than $20,000. It was also announced last night that General George W. Wingate had given a slik American flag, to be presented to the most popular public school.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.] New-Orleans, Nov. Governor Vardaman have got into a lively dispute over the charge of the Senator that Vardaman is a poor business man, because he did not hold the cotton held by the State for high prices. In denying the charge Vardaman remarks:

I have never prided myself upon being a great business man, but I know enough about business to see that the favors enjoyed by Senator Mo-Laurin in receiving rental for his lands from the State will not be perpetuated, if it is in my power to prevent it.

POLICEMAN CHARGED WITH THEFT.

Accused of Stealing Cash and Diamonds Valued at $10,000. [By Telegraph to The Tribune.]

Richmond, Va., Nov. 28 .- Harry McGuffin, a police officer at Covington, has been arrested, charged with the theft of money and diamonds valued at nearly $10,000, shipped from Hot Springs by a late fall guest of the hotel at that resort. After the arrest a search was made of the McGuffin home, and nearly $600 was found concealed under the carpet in the parlor.

McGuffin, who has heretofore borne a good reputation, maintains that the money is his, and that he had a right to hide it anywhere he pleased about his own premises.

McGuffin has been married just one month, and his young bride is prostrated at his arrest.

Every effort has been made by the authorities to conceal knowledge of the crime from the public, and it is impossible at this time to ascertain the name of the victim of larceny.

SECRET DIES WITH INVENTOR.

Construction of Marine Engine, Which Showed Remarkable Trial, Is Unknown.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.] Wilmington, Del., Nov. 28.—It was announced here to-day that, with the burial of Edward Waldron, who was found dead in Philadelphia on November 17, the secret of the construction of a marine engine was also entombed.

The engine was installed in a boat sixty-three feet long, the launching of which was postponed, owing to the inventor's death. The craft was finalby launched, and yesterday received a secret trial on the Delaware River, the success of which amazed observers. The Patent Office has just granted a patent to the dead inventor. The application had been pending several years.

STOCK MARKET OPERATIONS.

Irregularity marked the course of stocks yesterday. In the fore part of the day advances were general, while in the late dealings the order of things was reversed. The closing was ragged and net results were decidedly mixed. There was realizing in some of the pooled stocks, and in these rather material losses were recorded. In other pooled stocks the manipulation was continued, and in these issues gains were registered. While the developments in Russia depressed the European markets, the adverse influence was not communicated in any appreciable degree to this side of the Atlantic. The dominating factors in the New-York market were almost exclusively local. They represented chiefly the efforts and, in some instances, perhaps, the necessities of the speculative coteries. There was nothing in either money or exchange that was calculated to move the market. In spite of a withdrawal of gold for shipment to Mexico and of transfers of cash to San Francisco and New-Orleans both money and exchange disclosed weakness. On the whole the market may be described as mainly a professional affair. Transactions in stocks were on an extensive scale, but there was a considerable falling off as compared with the day before, owing to the reduction in new commitments. It was thought that selling of Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and the United States Steel issues meant that the Standard Oil contingent was for the time not inclined to encourage the bull campaign in stocks. It had previously been said that while this powerful clique was carrying stocks in great amount, it desired to wait until money was more abundant before beginning a wholesale marking up of quotations. On comparatively moderate operations Reading fell heavily, with the final price the lowest of the day. Rock Island preferred fluctuated considerably, but ended with a gain in price. There was no announcement as to whether the next dividend on this stock would be passed or not. American Woollen was kept active and was forced to a higher level. American Locomotive was also mad; to show conspicuously in the trading, but it left off unchanged.

While the situation in money is constantly improving, the decline in rates is rather deliberate. Owing to the peculiarly close pecuniary relations between the United States and Europe at present, it is probable that no matter how rapidly cash holdings increase at the money centres the descent in rates will be regulated in a large degree by the course of rates abroad. In other words, rates here are not likely to recede more precipitately than in Europe. Were rates in the United States to fall below those in Europe. the effect might be to dislocate the foreign exchange position, which is at this juncture more evenly balanced than in many months. A particular reason for not disturbing the equilibrium of exchange is to avoid interference with the heavy loans of European capital in the United States. The money market in the United States is not yet in a condition that permits a cancellation, at least to any particular extent, of the outstanding European loans to American borrowers. Before any great part of these loans could be paid off with actual money, a liberal augmentation of the bank reserves would be necessary. As a fact, the hope is to liquidate the loans eventually by commercial bills of exchange representing exports of cotton, grain and other products and manufactures. With rates for money in Europe somewhat under those in the United States, it is practicable not only to defer settlement on outstanding obligations, but also for the United States, if desired, to increase the debits against it. It is not that the United States is pinched for money. There is plenty of cash in the country, but it is not well distributed. This will not, however, long be the case. The financing of the crops has sufficiently progressed to release a good part of the currency that was piled up in the South and West. The money is naturally moving to the points where there is greatest need for it, and it appears to be a question of comparatively short time when the stock of cash will be advantageously placed. Partly by a readjustment of loans and partly by an accession of cash, bank reserves at New-York and other leading cities have been materially strengthened in the last fortnight. Hereafter, presumably, the building up of the reserves will be a less difficult task than in the immediate past, since the flow of cash to the money centres is definitely under way and doubtless will money. The payments on account of subscriptions to the loan will probably not be withdrawn for a considerable period. Finally, remittance for the Japanese bonds will be made to London, as in former issues, but it will, without much question, be made in exchange. Later, especially after the turn of the year, money will become cheap both in Europe and in the United States, and the exchange market will have worked into a state that will render transmission of payment for the Japanese bonds a simple affair. The holding back of cotton for higher prices is for the time being curtailing the supply of commercial bills of exchange, but the inquiry from remitters is moderate, so that there is not much pressure on exchange in one direction or the other. From the existing posture of exchange it is regarded as almost certain that there will be neither exports nor imports of
